I am getting stuck trying to figure out how to do this. What I want to do is use a method as a parameter to build a new object, I also want to be able to set its properties and pass it to other methods. public void NewObjectBuilder(type objectType, string value = "", string propertyName = "", string propertyValue = "") { objectType = // Some logic and I set the properties value // Code that builds the object: builder.addObject(objectType.Name); // Code that set its values: builder.propertyName = propertyName; builder.propertyValue = propertyValue; } Caller NewObjectBuilder(typeof(Controller), "foo"); So the problem I am having is the builder needs to have a method defined for typeof(Controller) but I cannot seem to get it to compile. It just complains that it needs a parameter but I thought a method cannot be a parameter. A: It depends on the visibility of the constructor. If its public then do public NewObjectBuilder(Type type, string value = "", string propertyName = "", string propertyValue = "") { .... } If its internal then public NewObjectBuilder(Type type, string value = 3da54e8ca3
