to maintain the same
filename when

generating files using 'cat' in bash? I have a file 'cat[1].txt' which contains the output of an experiment. Here is the name: cat[1].txt How can I generate a file with the same name using the following command in bash? `cat > cat[1].txt` The resulting file should be cat[1].txt I have tried with `cat > "cat[1].txt"` But this is not working. What can I do? A: This is the "bash way" of doing it (as an alias, as
