You might think after you download the game you would be able to play it on your Windows.Q: fade in / out image I have created an application with a page that has two grids on top of each other. On the top is a list, with each item in the list is a button. When you click a button, the lower grid fades out and the button's behind image appears. Here is the code for the button that makes the fade: `$("#workspace_grid_list li.make_clickable").click(function() { $("#workspace_grid_list").fadeOut("slow"); var image = $("#workspace_button"); image.animate({opacity: 0}, "slow", function() { //$(this).hide(); }); });` This works, and the button's opacity fades from 1 to 0. However, it makes the image transparent on top of itself. How can I make the button's opacity stay at 0, but the image show? Thanks in advance. A: You need to add a different class to the image. Then you can show/hide them.
