small. I want to make them larger/shrink them, without worrying about a pixel here or there. How would I do that? Is there someplace I can get it from? It does have to run on Windows. I can't think of how to code this up. A: Ok, I was way off. I figured out how to do it. I must have been reading something else, or trying to figure it out by memory. // Here, you could send the icon with the header information and // the size that you want. // Then, you would make the image what you want it to be. Like: QPixmap pixmap(0, 0, 50, 50); QIcon info(pixmap); // Then, it is very easy to set the icon on the QLabel with it. // Info is how you would get your information from the QIcon. label->setIcon(info); label->setAlignment(Qt::AlignCenter); label->setObjectName("icon_container"); Hope this helps!
