The powerful narrative begins when the protagonist, a young captain in the Canadian Forces, is asked to undertake a mission deep within enemy territory. Arriving at the base, he discovers that the mission plan has changed. However, the first thing he sees are the corpses of the other men on the base, their faces disfigured in a horribly inhuman way. Despite this, the captain is ordered to proceed with the plan as it was originally devised. The legacy of the 'experiment' begins and the conflict explodes. The captain begins to act on his own and begins to realise that he himself is not the only survivor. The world is in ruins. Many men have been assimilated in horrific ways. Can the captain survive amongst the monstrous abominations he encounters on his journey? Key Features: A Unique Story: The story takes place both at the Canadian Forces' Base and deep within enemy territory, allowing multiple narrative perspectives An Original World: The game starts by setting the ground for the conflict. The origins of the creatures are revealed as you experience the story unfold. The world is a horror show, once inhabited by thousands of men who were forced to assimilate. An Artistic Approach: Presenting the game as a game is the first major achievement of the project. The first step was to bring a cinematic feel to the game, and the result is that each action is accompanied by a powerful soundtrack and stylistic voice-overs. Evolving Players: The game puts the players in charge of changing the course of the story and removing the obstacles that stand in the way of the players, creating a rich and dynamic world for the players. Eternal Conquest: The game takes place over several timelines, allowing for a linear story with many options and encounters that extend the experience after the main narrative is complete. Traversing the Devastated World: The player is presented with several challenges to complete. The challenge is to overcome the obstacles and, in some cases, destroy the abominations and their minions to survive and to conquer the world.

Behind the Scenes November 06, 2011 I've decided to start a new series, called Behind the Scenes, where I'll be taking a look at the process of making a piece of jewellery and get a bit too personal. I hope you like these posts, they'll be really interesting. Today I'm looking at how we create embroidery. It's a very interesting process which c9d1549cdd

But the poster, which appeared in an Associated Press photograph taken during the NATO summit last month in Lisbon, Portugal, actually showed Russian-made MAK-29 Strela-10 missiles being used by the regime against civilians. According to three sources with direct knowledge of the missile's development, the missile image is genuine, and it appears in a promotional video that has been used by the regime to incite hatred against NATO. All NATO, which is committed to protecting civilians during conflict, would have known that. The Russian-made missiles were first fielded by Russia in the 1980s, according to Sergei Guriev, a professor of economics at the University of Notre Dame in Indiana and a member of the National Advisory Board on Missile Defense. He has attended the Strela-10 missile's production meetings in Russia, according to one of the three sources with direct knowledge of the missile's development. A NATO official with knowledge of the details of the incident who declined to be identified told CNN that the image in the AP photo was not used on the NATO campaign's printed posters, only in an online public relations campaign. The official, however, did not deny the

Review Anne Greco Thursday, June 14, 2013 Fantasy Grounds - 3.5E/PFRPG: SH4: Crucible of Faith by Suckz Pack Review

Something is very wrong in the City of Faith but we only catch glimpses before the spying Denizens of the Abyss drag us underground once more... On the surface, City of Faith seems like quite a nice place to live - yet hidden secrets and deeper mysteries lurk beneath the city walls. Rumours have been spreading about unusual phenomena affecting the city. Spells and other magical effects are being stolen by a mysterious group - the Mystics. News of some stinky creatures killing people has drawn the attention of the Citywatch, a group tasked with patrolling the high city and containing the activity of the Mystics. Meanwhile, the streets of City of Faith are awash with rumours of a great coming battle - the likes the city have never seen. And to top it all off, the tanner's shop has gone missing and the butchers have raised the price of meat!

Fantasy Grounds 3.5E/PFRPG: SH4 - Crucible of Faith The City of Faith is a city in the South of the Pelorian Empire, founded on part of the old Domjacardian empire. The Citywatch, and the mighty House of Blessings give the city protection. One large hill, the Citykeep, governs the city and keeps the peace, as well as making sure that the fire watch is staffed and maintained. This city has many places of worship, both for the followers of the Creator, as well as those who worship the Gods of the other races. The city is far from a hive of activity and but the rumours of other strange things happening in the city - the Tanner's that has gone missing, the butchers have raised their prices and it has something to do with spell seals and psychic powers. However, the city is extremely safe and is an ideal location to start a campaign in. ENQUIRE HERE!

GENERAL FEATURES City of Faith is full-fledged and has all the bells and whistles to make your campaign run smoothly including: Roll-playing paper maps to help guide you and your players through the mean streets of the city. Troweling through hundreds and even thousands of digitized antique paper manuscript copies, family histories, and treasure maps, I have discovered an area of excellence. The ability to mix old and new, or non-traditional and traditional together. And mixing them together in such a way that they are a cohesive whole. This has been a difficult task to tackle but I have given it my all. And I'm very pleased with the result. The art and illustrations cannot be more beautiful. The setting is a mixture of centuries and eras. Teir are Indian, Native American, Persian, Greek, or Medieval metal artwork,
