We used the word 'hack' in the American way - the latest fad word that wouldn't carry about much meaning. We used the word to mean something, and then we used it to mean something else. Today we are still using the word hack, but we're using it the British way. 'Hack' means something, and it's something we're proud of - it's an achievement. It doesn't mean the same thing as when we first started, but it's a word that

Hell Diamond is a sophisticated on-line multi-player role-playing game (RPG) with thousands of players in the world. Immerse yourself in a vast fantasy world and fight with thousands of players while completing quests, defeating monsters and earning items. You have the freedom to play as a warrior, doctor, mage, priest, merchant or other equally various roles for team of up to three people to co-operate. Build your own character by changing the equipment and even gender and race to suit your needs, and utilize various skills to manipulate others and play smart. Your abilities range from perfectly accurate martial arts and persuasion, to powerful psychic powers and skills that can heal others and destroy your enemies with one move. Weapons, armor and spells, even the fantasy world itself are affected by the existence of magic. The first and foremost factor to consider when choosing a role is the requirements; killing monsters is the means to level-up, but also the quest to collect items is active during the game. Quests are given by the GM, who will be able to advise players on the right things to do to win their favour. A constant and interesting element is the fact that the items available and the number of items required to complete a quest can change at any time. As the dark forces grow in strength, become stronger and larger, it becomes harder to overcome the elements and stronger foes. The experience points gained from battles against the monsters and against the players' friends play a major role in determining the next level to attain. There are countless monsters in Hell Diamond to discover and defeat. For the beginner, there are a vast variety of monsters, but there are some that are very difficult to defeat. You can increase your level by fighting monsters or by strengthening your equipment; as you level up, you will be granted more abilities to use, granting you added flexibility in battle. Not only is fighting monsters part of your job but collecting items is also a crucial element. By collecting items, you can buy items from the store, and trade items you have obtained to higher-level players who will be able to provide valuable information, the ability to use special skills and items and even the chance of receiving passive bonuses for you. With your items, you can manipulate others to cooperate with you and use the skills to go on quests and fight monsters. The effects of your surrounding actions will also be determined by the item you use. - Interact with players - Collect c9d1549cdd

But this "game-selection tool" is stupid. Are you from the big 3 (PlayStation, Xbox, PC) or if not, why you would choose another platform that is not on that list, plz? I will avoid your services, PS5 and anyone else who think like that. Well, what do you expect from us? The chances are very good that we did, and it is quite possible that if we had known about it we would not have chosen it. We cannot possibly know everything that is submitted to us, and it is very unlikely that the person who submitted the game reviewed the game before submitting. So, it was simply a case of finding a new kind of game that we would like to see on the PlayStation Store. I appreciate that sometimes, you get the idea that we think your site is not as professional as you would like people to think it is. Perhaps this is a case of that. We have considered going to where you suggested in the past, but we have always thought that you are better than this, so again, we can only apologise and hope you will allow us to act in good faith and give a chance to the likes of White Noise Online. Please don't take this as a criticism of your site (which I certainly don't have any feelings towards). It's pretty serious... but at the same time I think that it's a game that's a lot of fun for those who like something different and maybe we'll offer it for download for free. No, but I do understand that it's quite serious, and I fully appreciate that you don't know about our motivations. I just wanted to make sure that you know that we are not as ridiculous as this, and

With a new release of Fretwork's Train Simulator 2011, a new Locomotive can be found in the add-ons section! A beautifully restored LNER Peppercorn Class A2 'Blue Peter' locomotive now available for Train Simulator 2011. The Class A2 'Blue Peter' was a highly successful introduction to the then rapidly developing 'tubular' train type. Pictured here is LNER Class A2 7156 (GNR#7316), named Blue Peter at Darlington when new. Through hard work and workmanship from Worsley Works and SVRR, respectively, the locomotive is currently undergoing a complete overhaul and recertification, with much more to follow. After completion, her livery will be Park Royal Blue with gold and black lining. Contributor Gaye Wilder brings us the first new addition to the collection since its last release in April 2010. With previous Fretwork add-ons, it pays homage to the LNER's early, experimental diesel locomotive, the Peppercorn 'Class A'. The Peppercorn Class A was introduced in 1959 and initially comprised mainly of the locos that would become part of the 'Blue Peter' collection. The low step 0-6-0T Class A8 was not included, as the previous Class A8s were diesel-electric locos, with the LNER running their first ten A2s as 2-8-2Ts from 1959 to 1962, and the source of many power units still running today. In the words of John Thompson, locomotive number 7156's designer: "This small, lightweight engine was developed as the first steam locomotive to provide heavy coal hauling for the Darlington power station. "The locomotive was not successful and, as a result, not many were ever constructed. It was based on the design of the Class A3 for heavy train and goods traffic on the Eastern Region, primarily for River Thames level crossings with its unusual small firebox at the rear of the boiler with four high-pressure cylinders to the front." And, as both Alistair McWhirter and Gavar Brown have said (in a rather amusing blog about the 'peppercorn' loco), the name is derived from the State Express Freight designation for everything post-Docklands Radar (previously called DRL). The pair also quipped that 'Blue Peter
