Roblox is an online video game platform and game development platform operated by Roblox Corporation. It was founded in 2004 by David Baszucki and Erik Cassel, but was officially released in 2006. Roblox is programmed in the programming language Lua and is available as a free download for web browsers and mobile devices. Users are able to create their own games and play other user-created games. At the time of the platform's release, Roblox had 20 games available for users to play, with over 400 games created by the platform's users and admins. Roblox games are developed for all ages and ranges of skill and are generally of a 3D nature. Action games allow the player to shoot at enemies, steal items, etc. Virtual worlds are similar to the free-to-play Minecraft in the sense that they are 3D spaces that the user can interact with. Play with your friends? Definitely! Alright, now that we know that we play with others, we should ask ourselves... How much time and robux you get to play with your friends? This is the most important question and I'm a believer that this will make a big difference. How much robux you get to play with friends on Roblox will depend on the game mode you choose. Say you play the Survival game mode on a level with 5 hours to spend. You and your friends can spend 5 hours, but every robux you spend will count as 5 minutes. So if you spend two hours with friends, you'll spend two hours with friends and have only played 10 minutes.
