To evaluate the impact of a daily hand sanitizer protocol using a 0.1% hypochlorite solution on the use of gloves and alcohol-based hand rubs, patient throughput, and nosocomial infection rates on a surgical intensive care unit (SICU). An intervention study, using a pre-post evaluation design. A 28-bed SICU. Strict adherence to the protocol as a control and the use of a 1:1 alcohol/chlorine solution for hand hygiene were compared. Nosocomial infection rate was calculated for the control and intervention periods. After implementation of the protocol, hand hygiene protocols were conducted on 222 patients (116 pre-intervention and 106 post-intervention); 4% fewer gloved procedures were conducted and a 3% reduction in alcohol-based hand rub use (both P Are you waiting for the mainstream to catch up to "religious freedom" arguments? Don't. Religious freedom already exists. What's missing is for people to recognize that in the new c6a93da74d
