System Requirements For Aidfile Recovery Software Professional:

Noxiously awesome, but - as expected - pretty powerful. It requires a large amount of raw processing power to be able to properly render at a respectable framerate, but it's made possible through the use of a very large hard drive. That hard drive could contain 100 gigs of data and two gigabytes of RAM, or it could contain hundreds of gigs of data and 64 gigabytes of RAM - it doesn't really matter, because there will be more data on the hard drive than you can hold in your head - and more than enough RAM to handle it all
